NORRIS DENOUNCES CHICAGO "STEAL"

Answers the Defense of Taft by Mondell with Vitriolic Speech.

Business in the House of Representatives was suspended for an hour yesterday to listen to Representative George W. Norris, the Nebraska progressive, denounce the nomination of President Taft at Chicago as "fraudulent theft." The progressive leader concluded his reply to the speech Wednesday of Representative Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, who bitterly attacked Col. Roosevelt, and denied the Roosevelt charges of "stealing" the nomination. Representative Norris did not have a prepared speech. He spoke "right off the bat," ridiculing the claims of Representative Mondell that Taft's victory was "regular and legal."

Clustered about Mr. Norris and giving him frequent applause were a group of the House progressives—the little faithful band formerly denounced as "insurgents." The Republicans Smith were crowded, too, and many Democrats listened contentedly, their faces wreathed in broad smiles as Norris shot his caustic bolts at the Taft supporters. Norris was frequently interrupted by "regular" Republicans, indignant and belligerent.

Contents of delegates at Chicago from Texas were analyzed in detail by Norris. He denounced the meeting of Col. Roosevelt and the Roosevelt delegates as "one of the grossest frauds of the whole Chicago robbery."

When Norris began Senators Kenyon of Iowa and William Lister of Michigan were among his auditors. Representative Humphrey of Washington gave notice that he would reply to Taft's statements regarding alleged frauds in the Washington State convention. Norris opened fire upon the "Southern delegates," declaring many Federal officers manipulated the Alabama convention.

"The salary list alone of these officers—among the delegates and alternates—amounted to $50,000 annually," said Norris. "Every white man on the Georgia delegation except one was a Federal officer. Their joint salaries were $25,000. In those Southern States there is no Republican party, and the salaries of all of the Federal officers from the South at Chicago would amount to $1,000,000. That is more than the Republican organization and party is worth down there."

"If any Federal officer in Texas had the nerve to oppose Taft," Mr. Mondell declared, "he ought to have a chrome medal and a pension."

Norris read a statement from Collier's Weekly denouncing the Taft delegates from the South. Norris linked Ohio and Massachusetts primaries in his attack.

"We find Roosevelt telling some of the Massachusetts delegates to vote for Taft," said Norris. "In Ohio we find Mr. Taft at the State convention, sending a dispatch to his managers, like this: 'I hope my friends will not consider any compromise.' Defeated by 47,000, but giving orders to delegates to support the executive committee. Taft's position in Ohio. The plum tree in Ohio was shaken a while ago, and at least some of the men who obeyed Taft's orders received their reward."

Convinced that in the one week remaining of July it will be impossible to secure passage by both houses of Congress of the bills which appropriate money for the executive departments, House leaders yesterday planned another "continuing appropriation" bill.

On July 1 the government departments were legally out of business. Congress had appropriated no money for the fiscal year beginning on that day. To tide them over, however, a resolution was rushed through permitting chiefs to expend a sum equal to one-twelfth of their last year's appropriation in the month. Within the next few days leaders expect to rush through a similar measure covering August.

This action is based on the belief that it will be impossible for the big supply measure to become law in the one week remaining of July. The legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill is still in conference, and so is the sundry civil bill. There are several contested questions in each, and an agreement before August 1 is deemed of doubtful probability. The "continuing appropriations" plan. Along toward the end of the fiscal year all the departments are practically broke, and the new appropriations are available it is the usual practice immediately to replenish by expending a big part of the year's appropriations. Under the provisions of this year, however, chiefs have been held down to small expenditures.

PLAN TO CONTINUE 1912 SUPPLY BILLS

House Leaders Believe Appropriation Measures Will Be Further Delayed.

Death due to an unavoidable accident was the verdict of the jury.

SPIRO LADICOS TO BE DEPORTED TODAY

Former Attache of Greek Legation to Be Sent from New York to France.

Spiro Ladicos, the former attache of the Greek legation here, will be deported today. According to the Immigration Bureau laws, Ladicos is in the United States in violation of law as an "assisted alien." Ladicos' case has attracted attention, and efforts were made to allow him to remain in the country, but the officials of the Department of Commerce and Labor state there is no alternative under the law, as the Greek admits that his passage was paid by another person. The officials also claim that investigation of his career here shows that Ladicos is an undesirable person.

Ladicos was arrested July 15 and given a hearing. At this hearing he stated that he was born in Athens and educated in Italy. Ladicos told the inspector that his passage to this country was paid by Louis Thetiot de Graffen, a Frenchman. Ladicos said that he acted in the capacity of secretary to the Frenchman and also gave him instructions in Italian and Greek. De Graffen, on examination, denied that Ladicos was his secretary, but admitted that he had paid the young man's passage to this country, had paid him $40 to look after him. The inspector also reported that De Graffen was "very evidently in some awe or fear of Ladicos."

Ladicos arrived in this country on July 11, 1909. For some months he was employed at the Greek Legation. He blames all his troubles on Mr. Cattenough, charge d'affaires of the Greek Legation.

Ladicos came to this country on the La Savone, of the French Line, and will be taken back to France at the expense of the steamship company.

"YING" OR "WING," POLICE ARE IN GRAVE DOUBT AS TO GUILTY PARTY

The existence of two Lee Wings in the city has caused the police and court authorities much confusion in connection with the prosecutions resulting from the raid at the Pennsylvania Avenue mansion shortly after Sunday midnight. Incidentally, it came very near putting an abrupt end to the charges laid against the celestials alleged to have conducted the gambling house.

Wednesday, the Lee Wing who was arrested during the raid as a principal, Chinatown. So, yesterday morning, he pleaded not guilty, and demanded a jury trial, never once intimating that he was the real Lee Wing. Directly following the appearance of Lee Wing, No. 1, in court, the police discovered that there was another almond-eyed individual bearing the same name in Washington's Chinatown. So, yesterday morning, Lee Wing, No. 2, was arraigned. He demanded a jury, even as his Oriental brother did.

Yesterday, policemen noticed that the sign on the Pennsylvania Avenue house in which the raid was made bears the name of Lee Ying. The question immediately presented itself: Have the police caught upon the right Oriental? Is it Lee Wing or Lee Ying or Lee Yung, or some other "Wing" or "Ying" that the authorities really want?
